A Musical Treat

Quite the musical event of the year in Bowden took place on Friday night, Oct. 20th, in Payne's hall, when a concert was given in aid of the Boy Scouts by a number of ladies and gentlemen from Olds, assisted by the Bowden orchestra.

The hall was tastefully decorated with banners, flags, bunting and evergreens. The attendance was the largest ever seen at any public affair in this town. Mr J G Adam of Red Lodge, a quiet enthusiastic worker for the local Boy Scout movement, acted as chairman and made a fine speech on the aims of the scout corps. In the course of his speech he eulogised the services of Mr H E Shenfield, a good friend of the Boy Scouts.

The program was opened by an overture by the Bowden Orchestra, which was well received. A piano-forte duet by Misses Lois Rutledge and Mildred Hayward was given in a bright, spirited manner and with precision. The duet was much appreciated by the audience. Mr Thompson, an Olds lawyer, who possesses a voice of fine timbre, sang several songs in a delightful manner, and won for himself well deserved encores. "Thora" was his best song, and if a suggestion could be given him, the opening part of the chorus he might sing with a little more verve and fire. Madame Quigg, a soprano with an established old-country reputation rendered her songs in a most vivacious way. Her voice possesses great range. Her song "I Bring Three Roses," although artistically given, was not so pleasing as the ballads "Whistle and I will come to you my lad," and "Humpty Dumpty," which were rapturously enjoyed. Madame Quigg will soon establish a reputation in Alberta, and we trust—and the same might be said of Mr Thompson—that we will soon have the pleasure of hearing the singer again.

To Miss Thompson must be given praise for her excellent piano-forte solos. As a pianist her equal has never appeared on a public platform in Bowden. Her phrasing, technique, sympathy and interpretation of the intricate works of classical authors left nothing to be desired. At the close of each solo she received rounds and rounds of applause.

Mr Vincent, a young violinist, gave exquisite renderings of well known excerpts. "Il Miserere," from "Il Trovatore," was, perhaps, the best enjoyed. He plays exceedingly well and with deep feeling; but as is the case with many musicians, he is apt to play love appeals a little too dreamily.

Mr Kirkendale gave a neat zither solo, which was well applauded. The Bowden orchestra rendered several items in their usual manner.

The accompanists were Mrs (Dr) Stephens, Miss Thompson, and Mr Thompson. The Boy Scouts gave a few evolutions and a tableau which were performed in a very creditable way. The concert was followed by a ball, which ran on till the early hours of the morning.

Monday, Oct 30th, being Thanksgiving Day all stores will be closed.

Mr and Mrs Jas Cornish, of Mayton returned Tuesday from a three week's visit in Ontario.

Miss A J Campbell returned home to Bowden Wednesday after a residence at the coast of several months.

Those wishing to avail themselves of the discount on school taxes should pay immediately, time expires on the 31st.

Messrs Shenfield Bros have received instructions from Mr S J Graham to dispose of his entire farming stock and implements about the middle of November. Date to be made known later.

C.P.R. Double Track to Brandon

In its constant effort to give its patrons the very best of transportation facilities, the Canadian Pacific Railway is making a special effort to complete the laying of its double track between Winnipeg and Brandon by the end of the year. In fact, C. P. R. officials stated recently there was no doubt but that the new tracks would be completed and in operation by the end of December. It is 135 miles from Winnipeg to Brandon, but the contractors on the job are pushing forward the work and are making good progress. Between Portage la Prairie and Brandon, which is 77½ miles, all the grading is completed, and up to date seventy-five per cent. of the track has been laid.

When the work is completed the Canadian Pacific will have a double track between Fort William and Port Arthur and Brandon, and if the company's traffic continues to increase at its present rate a couple of years will see the double track stretching from the head of the Great Lakes through the three Prairie Provinces to Calgary. Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, president of the C. P. R., hinted at this in his annual report to the Directors of the company last month.

While this is the longest single piece of double tracking being done by the C. P. R., there are a couple of smaller sections in Saskatchewan between Moose Jaw and Caron and Moose Jaw and Pasqua. Grading on these lines is about 85 per cent. finished, but no rails have been laid as yet.

The Canadian Rockies

Albert Groll, the noted New York landscape artist, likes the Canadian Rocky Mountains. Mr. Groll has sketched scenes along the lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and he is enthusiastic over the beauty of the mountains. Stopping over at Duluth on his way back to Broadway, Mr. Groll was interviewed by a paper of that city.

"It is a beautiful country," said Mr. Groll, "and there are boundless opportunities of the photographer and the artist to get into close touch with Nature. Even if the artist never leaves the lines of the C.P.R. there is plenty of magnificent scenery to satisfy even the most ardent seeker of beauty."

Mr. Groll predicted a big inroad of American tourists into the Canadian Rockies next year.

Concerning them Mrs. H. Monette, Jr., Rapide de l'Original, Que., says:—"My baby cried day and night and suffered from his teeth. A few doses of Baby's Own Tablets made him healthy and happy and his teething easy and painless. I would not be without them. "I judged so," replied the baking powder drummer, "when I observed that they had laid off one of the hands on the town clock."—Puck.

There are excellent accounts this season of the two most famous of the royal vint—the one at Hampton Court and the other at Windsor. The Hampton Court vine will yield 250 bunches of grapes, weighing on an average 2 pounds each; and the other near Cumberland Lodge, in Windsor Great Park, is good for between 500 and 600 bunches, of from 4 pounds to 5 pounds. The former was planted in 1768, and the latter is of about the same age. Both at Hampton Court and Windsor the grapes are of the black Hamburg variety.

Apples Cooked by the Sun
A singular result of the great heat has been discovered at Winnipeg-on-the-Moselle. Some apples were found roasted on a tree. The proprietor of an orchard found that apples which were exposed to the sun had a dark appearance resembling that produced by cooking in an oven. The skin of these apples was removed at the least contact. The apples were literally cooked on one side and green on the other.

Forestry in Saxony

The aggregate area of the state forest of Saxony is less than 450,000 acres. The yield of the state forests in the year 1908 was 226 million feet board measure. In this total are compressed eighty-three per cent of wood and timber fit for technical use and seventeen per cent of firewood. The age of final maturity beyond which trees are not allowed to remain is, for spruce, eighty years; for pine, eighty years; for all hardwoods, one hundred and twenty years. The diameter of the trees measured four and a half feet above the ground at these ages depends entirely on the quality of the soil. It varies for spruce between eight and ten inches; for pine, between six and ten inches. The entire gross expense for forestry in 1908 was a million and a half dollars; forty per cent for salaries; forty per cent for logging and forest experiments, and twenty per cent for planting and road building. The entire gross revenue from forestry in 1908 was three million, nine hundred thousand dollars. The net revenue was as a consequence, two million, four hundred thousand dollars, equal to five dollars and thirty-two cents net per acre.

Fall Treatment for Cutworms

As cut worms have done serious damage in many parts of Alberta, particularly throughout the southern portion of the province, during the past season, it is important that preventive measures be now adopted, as far as is possible, so as to lessen the outbreak of these insects in 1912.

The moths which develop from cutworms appear about two weeks after the injury ceases, that is, in most years during July or August. On emerging they soon lay the eggs from which the cutworms come. Some kinds of cutworm eggs hatch in late summer others do not hatch until spring. These clusters of eggs are laid on weeds or other succulent vegetation which may be nearly, or upon the remnants of crops. In order, therefore, to destroy as many as possible of these unhatched eggs or the young hibernating cutworms it is necessary to plough deeply all fields where these insects have been troublesome this year. Such ploughing not only destroys many of the eggs and the young cutworms but also numbers of other insects which hibernate beneath fallen plants, refuse, etc. In gardens all remnants of crops or other refuse should be carefully gathered up and destroyed by burning. Fall ploughing should always be practised where circumstances will permit. On account of the copious rains which have recently fallen throughout Southern Alberta, fall ploughing, this autumn especially is rendered possible and I would therefore strongly urge all farmers to plough as much of their land as is possible before the approach of winter. By such ploughing the eggs of cutworms are buried and thus destroyed, or the earthen cells containing young cutworms are disturbed and broken and the cutworms exposed to severe weather which is fatal to them. Not only will fall ploughing destroy large numbers of these insects, but the land of course will be put into much better condition for early spring sowing.

On the first appearance of cutworms in the spring a free use of poisoned bran will avert much damage. Half a pound of Paris green is sufficient to poison fifty pounds of bran. The latter should first be moistened slightly with sweetened water and the Paris green then dusted in gently and the bran stirred so that practically every particle will be poisoned. For field use this mixture can be spread by means of a wheel seeder, and should be put out in early evening, as under normal conditions cutworms only feed at night. In gardens the mixture may be spread by hand, near the plants to be protected.

Advocating Better Roads

An important step towards the improvement of existing roads in Western Canada will be taken on Nov 3 and 4, when meetings of all interested in this movement will be held in New Westminster, B. C. The meetings are called by Mayor John A. Lee, and will be attended by a large number of the members of the Westminster Automobile Club, the Vancouver Auto Club, the Victoria Auto Club, the Seattle Automobile Club and other automobile associations.

The Pacific Highway Association will be represented at the meetings by a strong delegation, including prominent San Francisco, Portland, Tacoma, Seattle, Bellingham and Spokane men. These men will come prepared to urge the extension of the Pacific Highway, which now stretches from Vancouver, B. C. to Tia Juana, Mexico, a distance of 2009 miles. The scheme favored by the Highway enthusiasts is the building of the Pacific Highway through British Columbia, via Hazelton, and on to the Yukon.

The extension of the Canadian Highway with the object of eventually making it a good road from the Atlantic to the Pacific will also command much of the attention of the meetings. Resolutions asking the Federal Government to assist in this scheme will be introduced during the convention.

Other matters to be discussed include the placing of signs and guide posts along all travelled roads the standardizing of legislation regarding the speed of automobiles and the "rule of the road", and the planning of a campaign in favor of better roads.

"But you couldn't go against your father," Beth said, timidly.

"Oh, couldn't I? My dear girl, I have been doing nothing else all my lifetime. I have been a most undutiful son, and I have no doubt that I have come near to breaking my father's heart many a time, as he nearly broke the heart of his father before him. In common fairness he will have to admit that we Evors are all alike as young men; and, in any case, I couldn't give you up, Beth. Just think how faithful you have been to me all these years, when all the time, it has seemed as if I had a terrible crime on my conscience. Your father's death—"

Beth laid her little hand on the speaker's mouth.

"Oh, hush, hush," she whispered. "I implore you never to speak of that again. They told me, or, at least, that dreadful man told me, that you had committed that awful deed. He gave me the most overwhelming proofs, and when I demanded a chance to speak to you and hear from your own lips that it was a cruel lie, you were nowhere to be found. This, Fenwick told me, was proof positive of your guilt. It was such a shock to me that, for the time being, I lost my reason—at least, I did not exactly lose by reason, but my brain just seemed to go to sleep in some strange way. And yet, from first to last, I never believed a word that Mark Fenwick said. There was always present the knowledge that your name would be cleared at last, and the most gratifying part of it all is the knowledge that there can be no scandal, no slanderous tongues to say that there is no smoke without fire, and those wicked things that sound so small and yet imply so much."

"Don't let us thin k of it. Let our minds dwell only on the happy future that is before us. We shall be able to marry at once; then we can go and live in the old Manor House by the park gates. The place is already furnished, and needs very little doing up. Sooner or later you will be mistress of this grand old home, though I hope that time may not come for many years. It seems to me—"

But Beth was not attending. She seemed to be listening with more or less fear to the sound of wheels crunching on the gravel outside. Evors had hardly time to reassure her when the door opened and Lord Merton came in. He was a tall man of commanding presence, a little cold and haughty-looking, though his lips indicated a genial nature, and he could not altogether suppress the grave amusement in his eyes.

"This is an unconventional meeting," he said. "I received your letter, Charles, and I am bound to say the contents would have astonished me exceedingly had they been written by anybody but an Evors. But our race has always been a law unto itself, with more or less disastrous consequences. We have been a wild and reckless lot, but this is the first time, so far as I know, that one of the tribe has been accused of murder."

"It is a wicked lie," Beth burst out passionately. She had forgotten all her fears in her indignation. "My father was killed by the man Fenwick and his colleagues. That has all been proved beyond a doubt!"

Lord Merton smiled down upon the flushed, indignant face. It was quite evident that Beth had made a favorable impression upon him.

"I admire your loyalty and your pluck," he said. "My dear child, many a woman has risked her happiness by marrying an Evors—not one of them did so except in absolute defiance of the advice of their friends. In every case it has been a desperate experiment, and yet, I believe, in every case it has turned out perfectly happily. It was the same with Charles's mother. It was the same with my mother. No Evors ever asked permission of his sire to take unto himself a wife; no Evors ever cared about social position. Still, at the same time, I am glad to know that my boy has chosen a lady. When he was quite a young man, I should not have been in the least surprised if he had come home with a flourishing barmaid, or something exquisitely vulgar in the way of a music hall artiste."

Beth laughed aloud. She had quite forgotten her fears now; she was beginning rather to like this caustic old gentleman, whose cynical words were belied by the smile in his eyes.

"I am very glad to know that you are satisfied with me," she said timidly. "It is very good to know that."

"I suppose it would have been all the same in any case," Lord Merton replied with a smile. "You would have married Charles, and he would have had to earn his own living, which would have been an excellent thing for him."

"Indeed, he wouldn't," Beth laughed. "Do you know, Lord Merton, that I am quite a large heiress in my way. I am sure you won't mind my speaking like this, but I feel so happy today that I hardly know what I am saying. If you only knew the dread with which I have been looking forward to meeting you—"

"On, they are all like that," Lord Merton laughed. "To strangers I am supposed to be a most terrible creature, but everybody on my estate knows how lamentably weak I am. They all take advantage of me and bully me, even down to the lads in the stable, and I won't disguise from you the satisfaction I feel in the knowledge that you have money of your own. For some considerable time past I have been severely economizing with a view to paying off some alarming mortgages on the estate, so that I should not have been in a position to allow Charles much in the way of an income. It will be my ambition when my time comes to hand you over the property without a penny owing to anybody."

"May that day be a long way off, sir," Charles said, with feeling. "I hope to assure you how I appreciate the noble manner in which you have forgiven—"

"Say no more about it, say no more," Lord Merton said. He seemed to have some little difficulty in the articulation of his words. "Let us shake hands on the bargain and forget the past. I was profoundly interested in your long letter, and I must confess to some little curiosity to see your other friends, especially Mrs. Venner, who seems to have played so noble a part in the story. I understand that she and her husband are down here. I suppose you made them more or less comfortable, which must have been a rather difficult undertaking in the circumstances. However, I have arranged to have all the old servants back tomorrow, and it will be some considerable time before I let the old house again. Now, run away and enjoy yourselves, and let us meet at dinner as if nothing had happened. I don't want it to appear that there has been anything like a quarrel between us."

So saying Lord Merton turned and proceeded to his own room, leaving Beth in a state of speechless admiration. It was so different from anything she had expected, that she felt as if she could have cried from pure happiness. The sun was shining outside; through the window she could see the deer wandering in the park. It was good to know that the old dark past was gone, and that the primrose path of happiness lay shining before them. Presently, as they wandered out in the sunshine, Vera came on the terrace and watched them. There was no need to tell her that the interview with the master of the house had been a smooth one. She could judge that by the way in which the lovers were walking side by side. Venner came and stood by his wife's side.

"So, that's all right," he said. "As far as one can judge, they have managed to propitiate the ogre."

"What do you mean by calling a man an ogre in his own house?" the voice of Lord Merton asked at the same moment. "For some few minutes I have been keeping an eye on you two, but I suppose I must introduce myself, though you will guess who I am. Mr. Venner, will you be good enough to do me the honor of introducing me to your wife? I have heard a great deal of her from my son. Mrs. Venner, if you will shake hands with me I shall esteem it a great favor."

"Then you are not annoyed with us?" Vera asked. "You are not displeased at the way we have taken possession of your house? I am afraid that indirectly we have been the cause of a great scandal."

"Oh, don't worry yourself about that," Lord Merton said, breezily. "There have been far worse scandals than this in great houses before now; and, at any rate, it does not touch us. I am afraid you have been rather inconvenienced here, and that the Grange has not upheld its reputation for hospitality. Still, I hope it will be all right tomorrow, and I sincerely trust that you can see your way to stay here for some little time to come. I am going to ask my sister, Lady Glynn, to come down and act the part of hostess. Somebody will have to introduce Beth to the country as my future daughter-in-law."

"You are pleased with the arrangement?" Vera asked, demurely. "Indeed, I am," Lord Merton replied. "You do not know what an eccentric lot we are. I should not have been at all surprised if Charles had come home with some curiosity in the way of a bride, and I am only too profoundly grateful to find that he has made so sweet a choice. But, tell me, you will stay here some little time—"

"I am afraid not," Venner said regretfully. "If you will allow us to come back a little later on, I am sure that my wife and myself will be very pleased. I have no doubt that Evors will be impatient to claim his bride, but I hope he will wait for a month or two, at least. You see, I have a bride of my own, though, in a way, we are old married people. I don't know whether Charles told you anything of our story, but if you would like to hear it—"

Lord Merton intimated that he had already done so. He expressed a hope that Venner and his wife would return again a little later on; then, making some excuse, he returned to the house, leaving Venner and Vera together. For some little time they wandered across the park very silently, for the hearts of both were full, and this was one of those moments when words are not necessary to convey thought from one mind to another. Presently Evors and Beth appeared in the distance and joined the others.

"Well," Venner said with a smile, "it is some time since I saw two people look more ridiculously happy than you two. But, I am sincerely glad to find that the ogre is only one in name. My dear Charles, your father is quite a delightful person. I quite understood from what you told me that we had a lot of trouble in store for us. On the contrary, he seems to be as pleased with the course of events as we are."

"He seems to have altered so much lately," Evors said. "At any rate, he has been particularly good to me, and I am not likely to forget it. Behold in me a reformed character, ready to settle down to a country life with Beth by my side—"

"Not quite yet," Venner said, hastily. "You will have to curb your impatience for a bit; you must not forget how Vera suffered for the sake of you both, and how patiently I waited for my happiness. You must promise us that the marriage will not take place under two months, or I give you a solemn warning that we shall not be there. Our honeymoon—"

"Of course Charles will promise," Beth said, indignantly. "Oh, I could never dream of being married unless Vera were present. And, after all, what are two months, when you have a whole lifetime before you? I am sure that Charles will agree with me."

"I don't, indeed," Evors said, candidly. "Still, I am not going to be disagreeable, and Beth knows that she has only to look at me with those imploring eyes of hers to get absolutely her own way."

They left it at that, and gradually drifted apart again. When Vera and her husband returned presently to the Grange, the setting sun shone fully in their faces, flinging their shadows far behind. Venner paused just for a moment under the sombre shadow of a clump of beeches, and drew his wife to his side.

"One moment," he said. "We have not yet decided where we are going. I have everything in readiness in London, and I suppose that you are not lacking in the matter of wardrobe. Don't tell me, while having everything that woman can want in the way of dress, that you have nothing to wear."

"I won't," Vera said, softly. "My dear boy, cannot you see how glad I shall be to be alone with you at last? Everything is going well here, and Beth is entirely happy. You have been very good and patient, and I will keep you waiting no longer. If you so will it, and I think you do, let it be tomorrow."

Venner stooped and kissed the trembling lips held up to his. Then very silently, their hearts too full for further speech, they turned towards the house.

THE END.

Hindus in Canada.

The present Hindu population of Canada numbers about 2,000, all men, for no women are allowed to accompany them to Canada or to follow them after they have arrived and settled. These are resident entirely in British Columbia, and chiefly in the cities of Vancouver and Victoria and on the farms in the neighborhood, where they are industriously employed in the many forms of manual labor for which they appear to have both special adaptation and desire.

Dr. Sunder Singh, the accredited agent for these people in Canada, tells how the eyes of the Hindus were first turned toward Canada and how the first beginnings of modern emigration from India were inspired. He says that the visit of Hindu religious reformers to the great Parliament of Religions, which was held in Chicago in connection with the world's fair first aroused these people to an appreciation of the advantages of occidental civilizations and democratic institutions. The educational work carried on by missionaries in the high schools of India also prepared the way for a sowing of good seeds in a ready soil, the fruitage of which turned the eyes of educated Hindus toward this new world. Economic conditions in India furnished a movement of emigrants to Canada in 1905, when, and continuing until 1907, not a few came to this country.—Victoria Times.

Great Tonnage Increase.

So far this season there is an increase of 113,349 tons in the tonnage of incoming vessels over the same period last year, and an increase of 87,144 tons in the outward registered tonnage. Up to date, the records at the Montreal custom house show the inward tonnage so far this season to be 1,685,245, and the outward tonnage for the same period 1,649,132, with several ships still in port.

The arrivals this year number 570, while last year the number was 561, an increase of nine, which includes all classes of vessels, coastwise and schooners from the lower ports.

A remarkable feature this year is the tremendous increase in the flour trade, which has doubled itself every year. The tables further show that there is more money spent in the manufacturing trade in Canada, which has developed tremendously. Especially has the trade between the port of Montreal and New Zealand, Australia and South Africa grown by leaps and bounds.

There is also a great increase in manufactures supplied from there, which come in bond from the United States.

MONEY IN SHELLS.

English Dealers Make Fortunes Out of Seaside Souvenirs.

Every visitor to England must have noticed those curious and wonderful shell boxes with "A Present from Brighton," or some other resort, stuck on the top. In fact, all sorts of little presents and knick-knacks are covered with these shells. You may fancy that they are made from the shells to be found on the beach of that particular watering-place. As a matter of fact they are not.

The majority of these shell-covered articles are made in London. One firm there makes a speciality of the shell trade. They import them from all parts of the earth, from the Philippines to Japan, from Congo to the Bismarck Islands. The most commonly used shells are cowries. There are endless varieties of these. Cowrie shells are used in place of coins on the West Coast of Africa. In the Bismarck Islands the natives bore a small hole in each shell and string them on pieces of rattan. Six feet of this money is worth about 4s.

One dark gentleman, the Rothschild of the Bismarck Islands, possesses no fewer than 50,000 fathoms of shells. When he goes out "shopping" he slings a coil over his neck or arm, and chops off the requisite length to pay for purchases! The foundation of his wealth was laid by acquiring cheap rifles from traders in exchange for certain rights. These rifles he retailed at an enormous profit in shell money. His shells would bring him in nearly $50,000 if placed on the English market.

The majority of the small cowries that are used for decorating boxes are bought by the ton. In the course of a year one particular London firm uses or sells some millions. The largest varieties are fashioned into money boxes, or have pretty designs painted on them—pictures of local watering places, and so on.

A trade that beats the cowrie shell trade is that done in mother-of-pearl. The best mother-of-pearl comes from Japan. The thin strips that are used for inlaying are worth three times their weight in silver. The greater number of pearl ornaments of various kinds are made in Birmingham, though the supply of material comes from the London warehouse. There is a curious thing about the Birmingham pearl industry. In days gone by the Birmingham pearl workers could only use a thin portion of the shells, and the rest was thrown away as mere rubbish. The Birmingham Town Hall was built on one of these rubbish heaps. Since then a method has been invented for utilizing all this waste. For that reason the trade would give a great deal to get under the town hall the "rubbish" on which it is built being worth $2,000 a ton.

In addition to supplying shells for ornamental purposes the London firm caters for museums and collectors. Some shells are extremely valuable, many fetching $200 to $250 each, and in some rare instances many hundreds of pounds have been paid for a perfect specimen. A cowrie, known as the orange cowrie, fetches as much as $35 to $40.

"Daddy Crooks."

It is doubtful if any member of the British House of Commons knows more about the life of the "submerged tenth" than Mr. Will Crooks, known to hundreds of his constituents in Woolwich as "Daddy." For he is the "father" to whom many of them go with their troubles. Mr. Crooks's speeches during the Dock strike were most impressive, but he has never carried his audience with him so much as when, in April last, he spoke in the House on his motion regarding the establishment of a general minimum wage of thirty shillings a week for each adult worker. "All I ask," he said, dramatically, "is that the working man shall be treated as a human being, and not as a machine. 'Rate on economic conditions' cries the hungry man. 'Feed me and my family'—"

And then he told the pathetic story of a little girl who, going along the road crying with hunger, was met by a well-fed person. "What's the matter, my little dear?" the latter asked. She said she was hungry. "Never mind; God sends bread to fill hungry mouths." "Yes," replied the little girl; "He sends the bread to your house and the mouths to ours."

Reforming the Calendar.

Sir Henry Dalziel, who is introducing a bill for the purpose of reforming the calendar, was in the Reporters' Gallery before he became an M.P. In 1892 the death of Sir George Campbell created a vacancy in Kirkcaldy, and so many Liberal candidates were forthcoming that the Chief Liberal Whip and the constituency scarcely knew how to decide between them. Sir Henry saw his chance. He went down and offered to solve the difficulty by becoming a candidate himself. It seemed a good way of settling the problem, and the electors of the "Lang Toon" returned him by a substantial majority. Sir Henry was then only twenty-four years of age, and the youngest member of the House at that time. He was one of the smartest journalists in the Press Gallery, and to-day is, among other things, managing director of Reynolds' Newspaper.

Stops a Deep-Seated Cough in a Hurry

A Family Supply of Unequaled Cough Remedy for 50c—Money Returned if It Fails.

Cough medicines, as a rule, contain a large proportion of plain syrup—a good ingredient, but one that anyone can make. A pint of granulated sugar, with  $\frac{1}{2}$  pint of warm water, stirred for 5 minutes, gives you as good syrup as money can buy.

A 50-cent bottle of Pinex, mixed in a 16-oz. bottle with home-made sugar syrup, gives you 16 ounces of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-mixed for $2.50. There's a clear saving of $2.00. Full directions in package.

And money couldn't buy a quicker, better remedy. Takes hold at once, gives almost instant relief, and usually stops the most obstinate, deep-seated cough in 24 hours. It stimulates the appetite, is slightly laxative and has a pleasant taste—children take it willingly. Splendid for hoarseness, asthma, chest pains, and other throat troubles, and unequalled for prompt results in whooping cough.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of imported Norway White Pine extract, and is rich in gualacal and other natural healing pine elements. Simply mix it as directed with sugar syrup or strained honey, and it is ready for use.

Used in more homes in the U. S. and Canada than any other cough remedy. Pinex has often been imitated, but never successfully, for nothing else will produce the same results. The genuine is guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. Certificate of guarantee is wrapped in each package. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

The transition from winter's cold to summer's heat frequently puts a strain upon the system that produces internal complications, always painful and often serious. A common form of disorder is dysentery, to which many are prone in the spring and summer months. The very best medicine to use in subduing this painful ailment is Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial. It is a standard remedy, sold everywhere.

The Stomach Needs Help

The Liver, Kidneys and Bowels Must Be Kept Active to Ensure Health

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

Not one person in a hundred can get along at this time of year without using something to enliven the action of the liver, kidneys and bowels.

Too much eating of heavy artificial foods, too little outdoor exercise, this is the explanation.

The liver and kidneys are overworked in their efforts to remove the poisonous waste matter from the system. They fail, and become torpid and clogged. The bowels become constipated and stomach derangements follow.

There is one medicine which will overcome this condition more certainly and more quickly than any other, and this is Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

This medicine gets the bowels in action at once, and by awakening the liver and kidneys ensures the thorough cleansing of the filtering and excretory systems.

With the poisonous obstructions removed, the digestive system resumes its healthful condition, appetite improves, pains and aches disappear as well as irritability and depression.

You cannot imagine a more satisfactory treatment for biliousness, constipation, backache and kidney disease than Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

If the Home Plate demands cash, would you paper trust?

It Rubs Pain Away—There is no limit so efficacious in overcoming pain as Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. The hand that rubs it in rubs the pain away, and on this account there is no preparation that stands so high in public esteem. There is no surer pain-killer procurable as thousands can attest who have used it successfully in treating many ailments.

One of the latest of records is that of Mrs. Sarah Smith, of Bradford, a lady well over ninety years of age, who has spent a holiday in Bridlington every year for eighty-six consecutive years.

WHO IS RESPONSIBLE?

LACOMBE STATION BLOWN UP BY MYSTERIOUS EXPLOSION

Either Dynamite or Nitro-Glycerine Bomb in a Trunk Exploded, Demolishing the Building and Probably Fatally Injuring the Baggage-man—Two Men Were Arrested When Trying to Leave the City.

Calgary.—One of the most peculiar and at the same time serious accidents ever recorded in Alberta occurred recently at Lacombe when the Canadian Pacific railway station was blown up by a mysterious explosion. Baggage-man Macleod was probably fatally injured and the building was demolished.

When the express which leaves Calgary for Edmonton at 10 o'clock pulled into Lacombe at 10:30 o'clock a number of trunks were taken off the train. After the train pulled out the station baggage men as usual loaded the trunks onto a truck and took them in to the baggage room.

Taking one off the baggage men threw it on to the floor when suddenly a fearful explosion took place completely shattering the baggage room and badly wrecking the main station.

The effect of the explosion was first in an upward direction the roof being blown off. This was followed by the falling outward of the walls and the explosive, whatever it was, then struck through the floor and buried itself in the earth beneath. Whether it was dynamite or a bomb made of nitro-glycerine was not known. It was dark when the accident happened and a fire breaking out gave the town brigade a busy time of it for a few minutes.

That there was not a serious loss of life was most fortunate.

There were fully fifty people at the station when the train arrived but fortunately all had gone before the explosion took place. As it was baggage-man E. G. Macleod was so seriously injured recovery is extremely doubtful. His legs were badly shattered.

He was taken to the town hospital, where all the local doctors were busy trying to save his life, but with slim hopes of success. Assistant Baggage-man Bigg was also injured but not so seriously.

In the main station the plaster was knocked off the walls, the telegraph instruments wrecked and every pane of glass smashed to fragments.

The police got busy on the job but the fast gathering darkness and general confusion made it impossible to reach anything like an intelligent conclusion as to what was in the trunk.

It was apparently either dynamite or a nitro-glycerine bomb. The question that is perplexing the police is, was it an explosive designed to maim or kill; or was it sticks of dynamite intended for use by a prospector?

If the former, who was the sender? and who was the intended victim? If the latter, who was the culpable party? The only hope of tracing the guilty party is through the check. It may be found in daylight and even then it will only reveal the station from which the trunk started on its journey. Unless the baggage man happened to know the party getting the check the chances of locating him would be slim.

It is only conjectured but the accident gives rise to interesting surmise. What would have happened had that explosion occurred on the train? Undoubtedly the train would have been wrecked with resultant loss of life. Had it exploded when the trunk was taken off the train undoubtedly many would have been injured.

The assistant baggage agent at Calgary said no trunks were checked out here for Lacombe on the evening north bound train. The trunk was either put on the train at an intervening point or transferred from some connecting train at this city.

Improvements at Fort William

The Canadian Pacific Railway has started work on its new operations at Fort William and Port Arthur. The work for this year will consist chiefly in the erection of a new coal-handling plant, but in connection with the other operations there is considerable dredging to be done. The Canadian Stewart Company has the contract for the building of the coal plant, and it is stated that the appropriation for the work is in the neighborhood of one million dollars. The plant, it is stated, will take care of most of the soft coal assigned to the company at the head of the lakes, and it is hoped that it will be finished in time to handle some of next year's coal business.

It is also stated that the new plant will be built in the form of a loop, and the cars which will carry the coal back from the towers will run around the loop and dump at the desired intervals. Bridging the space between the loop there will be one or two lines of track, along which other cars can be switched in order to dump sufficient coal to fill up the centre of the pit.

Winnipeg Syndicate Buys at Calgary

Winnipeg.—Since the announcement of the C. P. R. shops for Calgary real estate circles have been very active there and nearly all the firms have made extensive sales. One of the larger deals is that closed by the Hammond Realty company, which comprises 350 lots in East Calgary to a Winnipeg syndicate, which has already expended $130,000 in that city.

FIRST TRAINS TO VEGREVILLE

Canadian Northern Pushed Back the Frontier 115 Miles—Some Good Towns on New Line

Vegreville.—The C. N. R. has pushed western Canada's frontier back 115 miles with the opening for traffic of the Vegreville branch to points south. Fifteen new towns got their first passenger train, and celebrations were arranged at many of the principal stations. A tri-weekly passenger service has been established.

The new line runs almost due south from Vegreville, and will end in Calgary. The country opened up is one of the finest in western Canada. Although it is described as prairie, it is prairie of the very finest variety. The country is well watered by creeks and lakes. The line follows the course of Meeting Creek and Battle River for many miles. These streams flow through the valley of a prehistoric water course, which must have been of immense proportion, as the valley is two miles wide and forms a veritable canyon in the prairie. It is such a formation as this that made the Grand Canyon of Arizona, and these big valleys resemble these canyons very closely. The valleys, once the haunt of the cattlemen and their numerous herds, are dotted here and there with prosperous homesteads, and the scene is one of great pastoral beauty.

Many good-sized towns have already been established, the largest and most progressive being Ryler, Roundhill, Camrose, Edenville, Edberg, Donalds, Red Willow and Stettler. Camrose has a population of about 1,500 and Stettler about 2,000.

"BROOKS" COMET IS VISIBLE

Interesting Tramp Wanderer in Etherical Space Getting Closer to Earth

Calgary.—An interesting visitor from outer space known as "Brooks" comet is now visible. The comet apparently belongs to the tramp fraternity and will never be seen again. It is not as brilliant now as it will be later in the month. The moon is too bright at present but with the new moon on the 22nd it should then become an interesting object in the more darkened sky. It is now visible in the evening sky northwest and any one with a good field glass should have no trouble in locating its large diffused head. Later in the month it passes between the pole and the sun and for a few days will be visible in both evening and morning, low in the northwest after dark, and low in the northeast before dawn. The perihelion passage occurs near the end of the month at a distance of some 40 million miles from the sun. At the time of perihelion, it will be in Virgo, rising more than two hours before the sun, and should be a fairly conspicuous object after the new moon, when the morning skies are dark.

The comet was discovered a month ago and is called after the discoverer.

PONOKA FARMER LOSES AN ARM

The Gun Went Off Prematurely, Smashing One Arm Very Badly

Ponoka.—While driving across the reserve recently Charles Tate, a farmer of 70, living east of Ponoka, was extracting the cartridge from an old hammer gun. One barrel went off kicking the gun backwards upon his lap causing the other barrel to discharge. This caught him in the left forearm shattering the bone and mangling the flesh to a horrible extent. Not waiting to pick up the gun which had rebounded from the rig he took the lines in one hand and drove with all haste to the home of Mr. Mann, Indian agent at Bobbema, a distance of three miles where Miss Mann bandaged the arm to stop the flow of blood which was streaming from it. Comfortable as possible Mr. Tate caught the south bound train for Ponoka where he arrived almost exhausted.

Doctors Campbell and Bell amputated the arm at the elbow joint and although Mr. Tate is in a very weak condition they have strong hopes for his ultimate recovery.

Making Motorless Flying Machines

St. Louis, Mo.—Wilbur Wright, before leaving here for Dayton, Ohio, recently said his brother Orville will not be here for the aviation meet, because he is experimenting at Gittley Hawk, S.C., with a problem of soaring machines without motors.

"It is an entirely feasible idea too," said Wright. "There is no reason why machines cannot be made to fly without motor power, the same as do some birds. Some of the larger birds, such as vultures, which travel great distances, are enabled to do so because they have the art of soaring for many miles without the use of any power."

Creamery for Magrath

Lethbridge.—Government Dairy Commissioner Gray has recommended that a creamery be established at Magrath, having received sufficient encouragement from the farmers of the district. Labor is very scarce in this district and farmers are having a serious time getting their crops off. Teams are very hard to get also.

Duke of Connaught May Visit U. S.

London.—During his tenure of the governor-generalship of Canada it is expected that the Duke of Connaught, accompanied by the Duchess and Princess Patricia, will pay a visit to the United States. A cordial invitation has been sent by President Taft to the Duke.

CALGARY UNIVERSITY

GOOD PROGRESS BEING MADE WITH CALGARY UNIVERSITY

Bold, Masterly Policy About Arrangement of University Buildings—Arranging for the President—Work Will Soon be Started Upon the Preliminary Work Building.

Calgary.—Good progress is being made with Calgary University and at the present time the authorities are deeply engaged upon two of the most important tasks facing them at this stage, that of selecting a president of the institution and that of planning for the university buildings.

It is expected that a president will be selected in a reasonably short time, but the authorities are sparing no effort to secure the ablest man available. A meeting of the committee in charge was held when a far-reaching plan was adopted to secure the most suitable president.

The authorities are proceeding upon careful and reasonable lines about building. They have decided, before a tree is planted or one sod turned, to secure a university building scheme for a great university, and will plan ahead for many years. An examination of McGill University or Toronto University shows how unfortunate it was that some such scheme was not adopted at the beginning of things by such institutions.

The university, accordingly, has practically completed arrangements with the most celebrated town planning experts and landscape architects Calgary for a plan of buildings for Calgary University. A member of a firm of Toronto architects has made an examination of the Calgary University grounds and is very enthusiastic about them.

"Nothing impressed us more," writes that gentleman, "than the magnificent possibilities which the situation opens up for a monumental and imposing group of buildings dominating the city of Calgary on the one hand, while having wonderful views of the Rocky Mountains on the other. We feel that the committee and the citizens of Calgary are much to be congratulated in having been fortunate enough to acquire a site for a university group unmatched on this continent."

"Knowing how well you appreciate this fact it seems scarcely needful for us to press home the absolute necessity for fearless, masterly planning."

The architects advise that before any decision is made regarding the location of the first building that an estimate of the accommodation for the next fifty years should be made. "The first building, which is expected to satisfy the demands of the moment should be erected, not necessarily as the central mass round which other buildings may be grouped, but as a definite unit fitting into some great scheme foreshadowing the time when accommodation will be required for a university of some thousands of students."

He further points out that the "natural focus and dominating motive of a great university should be an administrative building comprising among other features, an auditorium. In our opinion the site for this main building should be allowed to remain vacant until the institution has grown sufficiently large to warrant its erection."

Some features to be included in such a scheme are (1) A dignified approach from the city. (2) A bold dominating frontage of buildings on the crest of the hill facing the city. (3) The projection of one of the main avenues in the city as the axis for the university group. (4) An ample campus on the plateau having access to views of the mountains. (5) A careful arrangement and grouping of the various departments in such a way as to insure efficient and economical administration.

This is the bold and masterly policy that the members of the board of governors and the senate have practically adopted. Work on a contoured plan of the grounds will be started in a few days.

The authorities have no doubt but that classes will be started in a building on the university grounds next autumn.

GOLD PRODUCTION OF YUKON

Auditor Stockton Returns to Ottawa With Story That Output is On the Upgrade Again

Vancouver.—Gold production of Yukon district this year will be about $4,500,000 or about $250,000 in excess of the output in 1910, according to E. E. Stockton, the auditor-general's department, Ottawa, who has returned from Dawson.

Stockton has exceptional facilities for gaining correct information as he audited all the government accounts, including the gold royalties of two and a half per cent. The Yukon Gold company, controlled by the Guggenheim, has seven dredges in operation this past season, which has not yet closed, and were also extracting gold by other methods. Other companies are also doing considerable work. Stockton looks for a slow but steady increase of gold productions in the Yukon.

Carnegie Gets Freedom of City

St. Albans, Eng.—The freedom of the city was bestowed upon Andrew Carnegie recently. The American ambassador, Mr. Reid, and Mrs. Reid were present at the ceremony, and the ambassador made a speech.

Western Missionary Conventions

In the four Western Provinces there will be held this month a series of remarkable missionary gatherings for men. The first of these will be held in Vancouver, Oct. 18-20; the next at Calgary, Oct. 23-25; the third at Regina, Oct. 25-27; and the last at Winnipeg, Oct. 30-Nov. 1st. These conventions are under the joint auspices of the Laymen's Missionary Movement and the Church Missionary Boards.

These gatherings are likely to be remarkable in several respects. There will be an unusual array of widely known leaders in church work. Among these are Dr. John R. Mott, F.R.G.S., chairman of the World's Missionary Conference, and founder and leader of the Student Missionary Movement, the greatest recruiting agency for the missionary ranks the world has ever known. Dr. Mott is by all odds the greatest living authority on worldwide movements of the Christian Church. Sir Andrew Fraser, K.C.S.I.,

Sir Andrew Fraser

for many years lieutenant-governor of Bengal, India, and easily the outstanding figure in the National Missionary Conference held in Toronto in the spring of 1909. Sir Andrew is making this trip through Canada for the purpose of addressing this series of Conventions, which are to be followed by a similar series extending as far east as the Atlantic Ocean. Mr. Justice Brown, of the Supreme Court of Saskatchewan; James Ryrie, one of Toronto's leading merchants, who has just returned from an interesting tour of missionary lands; and Rev. S. D. Chown, D.D., the recently elected General Superintendent of the Methodist Church, will also be among those who will participate in each of the Conventions.

These gatherings also promise to be remarkable for the kind of men who will attend. Reports from the field indicate that not less than one thousand men, leading laymen of the different denominations chosen from business and professional life will be in attendance at each convention. These men for the most part come at their own expense, and undertake to give three days to the serious discussion of the missionary questions of the church. The unique thing in connection with each programme is the separation of the entire Convention the third day into denominational conferences, where the immediate problems of the particular denomination are given right of way.

Strong interdenominational committees have been appointed in each of the Convention cities, and they are undertaking to place literature in the hands of the ministers in every town and rural district. Each church is given a free hand in the appointment of delegates. Each of these committees have Executive Secretaries appointed, who are giving their entire time to the project.

The railroads will give very low rates in connection with the Conventions, particulars of which may be obtained from the Provincial Executive, located in the Convention cities, or from any clergyman.

In none of these Conventions will any attempt be made to raise money, there can be no interference with the financial arrangements of any church, for the details of all such matters are left to them to work out.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

LESSON IV.—FOURTH QUARTER, FOR OCT. 22, 1911.

Text of the Lesson, Ez. iii, 3 to iv, 5. Memory Verses, iii, 11—Golden Text, Ps. c, 4—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

The topic of the lesson today is the rebuilding of the temple, which was begun in the second year of their return (iii, 8), but in the seventh month of the first year they repaired the altar and offered sacrifices.

According to Lev. xxiii, 23-36, the programme for the seventh month was for the first day blowing of trumpets, on the tenth day the atonement, on the fifteenth day the feast of tabernacles, and these they seem to have carefully observed. Note the one accord, for they gathered together as one man to Jerusalem (iii, 1). This unity of heart must be very pleasing to the Lord. Compare the seven "one accords" of Acts i, 14; ii, 1, 40; iv, 24; v, 12; viii, 6; xv, 25, all for God, and the four "one accords" of the devil, Acts vii, 57; xii, 20 xviii, 12; xix, 28.

Their first essential to the worship of the Lord was an altar for sacrifice (iii, 2). See the altars of Noah and Abram (Gen. viii, 20; xii, 7, 8; xiii, 4), but observe that he had no altar in Egypt. Mark the threefold phrase "Unto the Lord" (iii, 3, 5, 6), and if you can find time to mark this and "Before the Lord" in the book of Leviticus, where they are found many times, you will be greatly profited, as these two sayings cover all real Christian life. There is a saying in iii, 4, worthy of close attention, "As the duty of every day required," or as in the margin, "The matter of the day in his day." It is found just seven times pertaining to the things of God, the other six being in Ex. xvi, 4; I Kings viii, 59; xxv, 30; II Chron. viii, 13, 14; Lev. lii, 34. It is used once of the devil's tyranny in Ex. v, 13. We are reminded of "As thy days so shall thy strength be" and "Give us this day our daily bread."

The expression "the house or temple of the Lord" (iii, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12) reminds us of the great business in which we now are or should be engaged, the building of the church, which is His body (Eph. i, 22, 23; ii, 19-22), "His own house, whose house are we" (Hab. iii, 6).

The house of our lesson was a literal building of wood and stone at Jerusalem. The building on which we are engaged is one of which the living stones are men and women and boys and girls, according to I Pet. ii, 5, 6, and every soul saved in any part of the world is another stone for the building. There were much praise and thanksgiving at the laying of the foundation of this temple (iii, 10, 11). We should be always full of praise because of our foundation, which has been laid strong and sure forever (Isa. xxviii, 16; I Cor. iii, 11), provided we are on that foundation by faith in Christ Jesus. All else will be swept away. As we go on with the building day by day some are weeping because of many discouragements, while some shout for joy (iii, 12, 13).

Some look backward and tell us of better things in the past. Some look around and are discouraged because of the worldliness and unbelief which prevail. The only way to look is upward to Him of whom it is written, "He shall not fail, nor be discouraged (Isa. xlii, 4). Certain people who were adversaries of Judah and Benjamin wanted to help with this building, but the governor and the high priest said to them, "Ye have nothing to do with us to build a house unto our God." So their assistance was refused, and rightly too. Then they did all they could to hinder the work, and used force and power to cause it to cease, and succeeded, so that for many years there was no progress made with the building (iv, 1-5, 23, 24).

In the building of the church, the body of Christ, those who profess to be interested act so differently from Zerubbabel and Joshua, inasmuch as they seek help of every kind from all sorts of people, never considering whether they are the Lord's or not. As a rule, no questions are asked as to whether saved or unsaved if only money can be obtained or help in the choir, or whatever is needed. This is all wrong, and the way of our lesson is the only right way, for light cannot have fellowship with darkness nor believers with unbelievers, and they that are in the flesh (unsaved people) cannot please God (II Cor. vi, 14-18; Rom. viii, 7, 8). There is much that is called church work in which it is possible that the Lord has no part at all, as He never gave the pattern. The only real work of true believers is to manifest the life of Jesus and win others to Him. Building up one's own congregation or advancing the interests of a denomination may not be of the Lord at all, but may come under the heading of Hag. i, 4, 9, "Mine house is waste, and ye run every man to his own house." I am sure that the Lord is calling to His people now, as He did by Haggai and Zechariah.

As the work on the temple was resumed and the building finished through the prophesying of Haggai and Zechariah (Ez. vi, 14, 15), so surely shall the church, the body of Christ, be completed and taken up to meet the Lord in the air before the end of this evil age, and then shall come an age of peace and righteousness with Israel as a centre.

Nearly every railroad man is politer than the ticket agent.

New Grain Exchange

The new Grain Exchange lately
opened at Fort William will give farmers and dealers another exchange
through which to sell their grain.

Fort William and Port Arthur being at the head of the Great Lakes, and being the storehouses for all
grain grown west of Lake Superior,
it is only natural that grain exporters think that Fort William is the logical point for a market for Western grain.

A sample market is to be established by the new exchange which should be a great boon for the farmers and dealers. The mixed crop that we have this year can be disposed of, in most cases, to much better advantage by selling on sample than on grade, and
the Fort William and Port Arthur Grain Exchange is to be congratulated on taking this forward step.

The only thing now required is to induce the Government to change the Grain Act so that a sample market can be established at the Head of the Lakes. The Government should see at a glance that it would mean better prices for the producer for all grades of wheat, oats, barley and flax.

 ed with them. The trial will be inexpensive and the result will be another customer for this excellent medicine. So effective is their action that many cures can certainly be traced to their use where other pills have proved ineffective.

ST. VITUS DANCE

CURED THROUGH THE USE OF
DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS

Chorea, or as it is more generally known, St. Vitus dance, is a disease that usually attacks the young children, though older persons may be afflicted with it. Its most common symptoms are a twitching of the muscles of the face and limbs. As the disease progresses this twitching takes the form of spasms in which the jerking motion may be confined to the head, or all the limbs may be affected. The patient is frequently unable to hold anything in the hands
or to walk steadily, and in severe cases even the speech is affected. The disease is due to debility of the nerves and is always cured by Dr.
Williams' Pink Pills, which enrich the blood, tone and strengthen the nerves and thus restore the sufferer to good health. The following is a striking instance of what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will do in this trouble. Mrs. Chas. Phipps, Pelee Island, Ont., says:—"At the age of fourteen my eldest daughter, Edith,
became much run down, and the trouble developed into St. Vitus disease. First her left arm became affected, then the left leg and entire left side. She grew so bad that she actually could not hold anything in her hand, and could only go about with a sliding, jerking motion. Notwithstanding that we were giving her medicine, she seemed to be growing worse, and finally her speech became much affected. We became so much alarmed about her that finally her father got a supply of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and we began giving her these. In the course of a few weeks she was much better, and before all the pills were gone she was again enjoying perfect health. This was in 1908, and as she has not had a symptom of the trouble the cure is permanent."

Be sure you get the genuine pills
which are sold by all medicine dealers of may be had at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr.
Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville,

DID NOT HAVE TO CALL THE DOCTOR

BECAUSE SHE TRIED DODD'S
KIDNEY PILLS FIRST.

One Box of Them Cured Mrs. Mary
A. Cook's Rheumatism. From Which She Had Suffered For Fourteen Years.

Mannheim, Ont.—(Special).—How
quickly and easily Rheumatism can be cured when you use the right
means is shown in the case of Mrs.
Mary A. Cook, well known and highly respected here. In an interview regarding her cure, of which all the village knows, Mrs. Cook says:

"I had Rheumatism so bad that sometimes I would sit up nearly all night.

"I first thought I would try the doctors, but luckily I decided to first try Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"They cured me, and I didn't have to try the doctors. And just to think that after fourteen years of suffering one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills should cure! I will recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to anyone who suffers from Rheumatism."

"Yes, it is easy to cure Rheumatism when you go the right way about it. Rheumatism is caused by uric acid in the blood. If the kidneys are working right they will strain all the uric acid out of the blood and there can be no Rheumatism. Dodd's Kidney Pills always make the Kidneys work right.

CANADA'S FUR ANIMALS.

The Beaver Is Again Coming to the Fore Commercially.

Perhaps no asset of the Dominion of Canada has been of late years as underrated as our fish and game.
While it is true that during the eighteenth and early part of the nineteenth century beaver were the principal product of this country, so much so that their skins were accepted as currency throughout the western part of Canada and the United States, and were the standard for barter with the Indians, how few stop to consider what this meant to our country in its days of infancy before our pine timber became of value. We are apt to look at this industry as a thing of the past. This is, however, far from being the case. It would surprise most people were they to follow back the handsome fur wraps they wear
through all the different stages down to the man who mined the iron for the trap with which they were caught,
and see just how much employment
and capital the fur industry represents.

True, our fur-bearing animals are not as plentiful as they were, especially the beaver, yet with reasonable protection there is no reason why the beaver as well as all other animals should not fill up our waste lands in the Dominion and again become a very important asset. There is a great territory in the heart of Ontario that is not fit for agriculture, from which the pine timber has been either cut or destroyed by fire, that is now only fit to be added to our present
game preserve and become a home
for millions of dollars' worth of game.

The greater portion of the beaver skins taken in the past two hundred years on the American continent have been handled at the London auction sales. The first of these was held on January 24, 1672, and was considered an event of great importance, being held by the Hudson Bay Co. From that date on to the year 1902 it is estimated that 30,000,000 skins were handled at a valuation of $100,000-000. The average annual sale at present is perhaps 50,000 skins. In addition to this number, some 15,000
to 20,000 skins are handled at Leipzig and at private sales in Canada and the United States.

Our Government realizing the importance of these assets have in late years set apart several large game preserves, principally to provide breeding grounds and protection for them, where unmolested they might increase and spread out over the rest of the country. Of these the Algonquin National Park is the largest and is situated in the district of Nipissing.
It was set apart in the year 1893 and has been added from time to time until it now covers an area of nearly two million acres.

In 1893 the beaver had almost become extinct. To-day every lake, of which there are some 1,200, is full of beaver while the several rivers that take their rise in the park as well as the thousands of creeks and ponds,
also abound with this wonderful animal, so much so that the Minister last year decided some could be taken annually without detriment to the park or the surrounding country, which is also filling up very rapidly. Last year some four hundred beaver, and a few otter, mink and muskrats were taken and sold in Toronto, bringing a good price. This year more will be offered for sale. Otter, mink, marten, fisher, muskrats and all other game
are to-day very numerous and the annual increase is very great. The Government has in this vast territory
twenty rangers and a superintendent whose duty is to patrol the park during the hunting season and trapping season to see that no illegal hunting or trapping goes on. This work has been carried on very successfully. It is true, however, that there are some cases that escape them, which is only to be expected, over such an extent of country. At other times they cut out portages, build shelter houses,
clear out streams, make improvements at headquarters, etc. They are at all times fire rangers, their work in this capacity having protected the great preserve from serious fire in many years. The lakes and streams of the park also furnish the great inducement to the angler, trout and small mouthed bass abounding, and a great number visit it annually for this sport.

Our greatest pest is the wolf and nothing too mean can be said about him.

An Election Echo.

Every election contains a certain amount of humor as well as bitterness, and the recent reciprocity contest was no exception. A newspaper man was traveling on a train in Northern Ontario, and got into conversation with a fellow-passenger. They discussed many things, and finally found themselves wandering into politics.

The newspaper man thought he would sound his new acquaintance before drifting into an argument, so he asked the plain question, "Do you support reciprocity?"

"I certainly do not," was the reply, "I haven't read very much about it, but I will vote against it."

"Why?" was the next query.

"Look what it has done for Owen Sound. You can't get a drink in the town."

Burning Papers

Burning old papers in a grate is likely to cause the chimney to catch fire. To prevent this accident, make the papers into bundles and put some wire round them. They may then be safely burned, for they will burn slowly in the grate, almost like a log of wood. The same wire may be used again and again.

The Best Treatment for Itching Scaps and Falling Hair

To allay itching and irritation of the scalp, prevent dry, thin and falling hair, remove crusts, scales and dandruff, and promote the growth and beauty of the hair, the following special treatment is most effective, agreeable and economical. On retiring, comb the hair out straight all around, then begin at the side
and make a parting, gently rubbing Cuticura ointment into the parting with a bit of soft flannel held over the end of the finger. Anoint additional partings about half an inch apart
until the whole scalp has been treated, the purpose being to get the Cuticura ointment on the scalp skin rather than on the hair. It is well to place a light covering over the hair to protect the pillow from possible stain. The next morning, shampoo with Cuticura soap and hot water. Shampoos alone may be used as often as agreeable, but once or twice a month is generally sufficient for this special treatment for women's hair. Notwithstanding Cuticura soap and ointment are sold everywhere, those wishing to try this treatment may do so without expense by sending to "Cuticura," Dept. 4M, Boston, U.
S. A., for a free sample of Cuticura soap and ointment, with 32-p. book on skin and hair.

Seeds of Kindness

An original story by Marjorie Shenefield

One day a little girl was ill. Her mother looked after her very patiently. But the little girl got worse. One day her father had just saved ten dollars so he called in the doctor. The doctor said it would take fifty dollars to cure her. She had a brother twelve years of age. He tried to earn money by doing little errands for people.

One day he met a lady who was wealthy. She asked him where he was going.

He said, "I am doing errands to help to get money for my little sister who is ill."

The lady said, "Take me to see your little sister."

When the lady saw the little girl she talked to her kindly.

Before she went away she said, "I will come to see you again."

The next time the lady came she brought the little girl a basketful of presents. Her brother helped her to take out the presents. In the basket was a large doll with lovely clothes and candies made into dogs and cats and other animals. And in the bottom there was a ten dollar bill. The little girl's parents and her brother had now fifty dollars. The little girl was soon cured. Her parents were always thankful to the lady who helped them.

A meeting of the Public School Debating Society was held on Friday afternoon, Oct 20th. Master Brine Howard acted as chairman.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by Catherine Campbell, adopted, and signed by the chairman.

The topic for discussion was The Pen vs The Sword. The speakers for The Pen were Marjorie Shenefield, Margaret Campbell, Mabel Campbell, Helen Hayes and Jennie Shenefield—most of whom having their first experience in a debate, did very creditably. Charles A Roulston, Kenneth Hayes, Jack Shenefield, and Harvey Walton spoke on behalf of the Sword. Charles Roulston distinguished himself by an able speech and keen criticism.

The Principal criticized the speakers, and enlarged upon the matters brought up for discussion.

The subject for the coming Friday's debate is "Should women have votes?"
